

Be as good at business
as you are at your trade

There are four types of business owners out there, which one are you?

Those that want to be Liked....define me please. They under sell themselves too much and will never make a decent profit.

Those that want to be Comfortable.... I am happy where am, not really, well I tell myself that, success generally never comes from being comfortable.

Those that must be Right....Mr arms folded, Mr keyboard warrior, Mr will argue till the cows come home, I'm right, I've been in business for x years, why would anyone else know better than me?

Then there are those that are determined to WIN!

Get rid of having to like others and/or people liking you because most people are only like that to your face.

Stop focusing on being comfortable and focus on being uncomfortable.

Forget about being right, we all make mistakes.

Train hard and focus on being a Winner

“Our Mission is for you to be as good at business as you are at you Trade”
